

CFO Summit Highlights

One Inaugural Keynote

Two Interesting Panel Discussions

Two Sponsor Sessions

CFO is considered as a key influencer as he has the responsibility to maintain good financial management system of the company. He interprets and analyses the financial structure and decides how to invest the company's money keeping in mind the risk and liquidity. In addition to this, the job of the CFO is to oversee the capital structure of the company.

Considering the above facts, CFO Summit 2013 was organized on April 18 in Mumbai where the Top Finance Leaders gathered together and shared their views in various discussions and interesting sessions. CFO Summit provided an excellent platform for the Senior Financial Executives to network with their likeminded peers who are responsible for taking critical decisions and responsibilities for the growth of an organization.

PANEL 2 - What's Next for CFOs?

« “I liked the idea of having Summit for a very short span of time instead of having day long summits. Event, with limited number of participants is a good idea. This helped in active participation of all the participants, making event very interactive.”

Sachin Raole,

CFO & SVP - Corporate Services, RPG Life Sciences

« “Such summits are very useful as these bring cross section of finance professionals together to debate pertinent issues and share their own practical experiences where audience can relate to. My own sense is that our topic was very good and drew attention to opportunities and challenges being faced by CFOs. My overall experience was good.”

Ranjan Narayan,

CFO, Viacom 18 Media

“The program was nice and the response from participants was good. A lot of people came to me at the end of the program and told me that they really enjoyed the panel.”

Neeraj Jain,
